Speaker Biography

Dr Elaine Kasket

Programme Director and Principal Lecturer in Counselling Psychology, Regent's University London

Dr Elaine Kasket is a London-based counselling psychologist, psychotherapist and academic with a particular interest in the interfaces between living, death, mourning, and digital-age technologies.

While she enjoys publishing on this subject, she particularly values opportunities to speak directly to practitioners, many of whom may not realise the extent to which the digital era is changing the nature of living towards death, and transforming grieving and memorialisation.

She is on faculty at Regent's University London, where she serves as Programme Director for the DPsych in Counselling Psychology, and is also a private practitioner.
