Flight

With my design I wanted to experiment with photography and working digitally. I was inspired by the idea of hope and the idea of things being darkest before the dawn. I researched landscape photography, looking at sunsets and sunrises, also looking at silhouettes. I captured this image of a bird in flight, I liked the silhouette of the bird in contrast to the sky and also thought the bird in flight, represented hope.

Sunset

Working on some board, I found an image of a sunset. Using paint and some plywood I recreated the scene using paint. Once complete I realised that the image created a mirrored effect.
